

A microscopic view of numerous oil droplets of various sizes suspended in water. The droplets are spherical and have a bright, iridescent sheen on their surfaces, reflecting light in shades of yellow, orange, and green. They are densely packed in some areas and more sparse in others, creating a complex, textured pattern.

ME 300:
Engineering Thermodynamics

Using the NIST Webbook

To the internet!!!